

New healthcare careers website for young people

A brand new website called Discover Healthcare ^[1] aims to attract people between the ages of 14 and 19 in to a healthcare career in south London.

The new website has been set up to encourage young people to think about a career at Guy's and St Thomas' NHS Foundation Trust ^[2], King's College Hospital NHS Foundation Trust ^[3], King's College London ^[4] or South London and the Maudsley NHS Foundation Trust ^[5]

The Discover Healthcare ^[1] website:

- showcases roles and professions that offer great careers but are sometimes hard to recruit to
- makes it easy for teachers, parents, young people and youth-led organisations to find different employment opportunities in our organisations

There's lots of information about how young people can get involved.

Find out more

Check out the website's interactive content, videos and stories ^[1] that explain what is required to get into different roles and jobs.

There's also information about the different ways young people can get involved, including:

- apprenticeships
- work experience
- e-mentoring
- careers fairs and roadshows
- simulation centre health education
- summer schools
- internships
