District nurse

District nurses make a difference everyday to the lives of the people they visit at home and in residential care homes. They provide increasingly complex care for patients and support for family members.

Working life?

As a district nurse, you'll?

- assess the healthcare needs of patients and families
- monitor the quality of care they're receiving
- be professionally accountable for its delivery

Your patients could be any age, but they'll often be elderly, while others may have been recently discharged from hospital, be terminally ill or have physical disabilities.

"I have an amazing, rewarding job and my aim is to continue to provide skilled and compassionate care for my patients in their homes for as long as I am able."

Read Elizabeth's story [1]

You'll be visiting patients every day or more than once a day, offering help, advice and support. You may work on your own or with other groups, such as the social services, voluntary agencies and other NHS organisations and help to provide and co-ordinate a wide range of care services.

As well as providing direct patient care, you'll have a teaching and support role, working with patients to enable them to care for themselves or with family members teaching them how to give care to their relatives. You'll also be accountable for your own patient caseloads.

District nurses play a vital role in keeping hospital admissions and readmissions to a minimum.

You'll play a vital role in keeping hospital admissions and re-admissions to a minimum and ensuring that patients can return to their own homes as soon as possible.

Entry requirements and training

District nurse training programmes are known as specialist practitioner programmes and are at degree level. You can also find courses at post graduate certificate and Master's level. They are normally no less than one academic year (32 weeks) full time or part-time equivalent.

Specialist practitioner programmes comprise 50% theory and 50% practice and concentrate on four areas:

- clinical nursing practice
- care and programme management
- clinical practice development
- clinical practice leadership.

Community staff nurses can be funded onto a district nurse specialist practitioner programme via their employing organisation. Sponsorship opportunities are also available each year, usually with a September start, for applicants with the relevant registration and experience. These are advertised in the nursing press and the NHS Jobs website about six months prior to the start date.

A level 7 apprenticeship standard in district nursing has been approved for delivery. To get onto an apprenticeship, you will need to apply for an apprentice position with a health care provider. You can search for vacancies on the NHS Jobs [6] website and Find an Apprenticeship [7] website.

'It's my job to assess and support patients, then co-ordinate a care package to give them the help they need.' Suzanne Whitwell, tissue viability nurse?

Read Suzanne's story [8]

Want to learn more?

- Find out about the range of skills are also needed to be a district nurse [9]
- Find out about the training and development opportunites in district nursing [10]

- Pay and conditions
  Expand / collapse

Most jobs in the NHS are covered by the Agenda for Change (AfC) pay scales [11]. This pay system covers all staff except doctors, dentists and the most senior managers. District nursing jobs usually start at band 6 but there is opportunity to move up the bands with more experience. District nurses in the NHS will usually work standard hours of 37.5 per week. Terms and conditions can vary for employers outside of the NHS.

- Where the role can lead
  Expand / collapse
Once you have qualified as a district nurse, there are a wide range of opportunities. You may want to lead a team and become a community matron or move into teaching or clinical research. [12]

More information on training and development in district nursing. [13]

- Job market and vacancies

Expand / collapse

Estimates show that there are over 4,000 district nurses in today’s NHS workforce. Job and training opportunities are expected to grow as more nursing care moves out of hospitals and into the community. In 2016/17, there are anticipated to be over 500 district nursing training places available.

Most NHS organisations advertise their job and apprenticeship vacancies on NHS Jobs [14], including those who run NHS services. Some advertise on their own websites. You can find NHS organisations on NHS Choices. [15]

If you're applying for a role either directly in the NHS or in an organisation that provides NHS services, you’ll be asked to show how you think the values of the NHS Constitution apply in your everyday work. Find out more about NHS values. [16]

- Further information

Expand / collapse

- Royal College of Nursing [17]
- Nursing and Midwifery Council [18]
- Community Practitioners and Health Visitors Association [19]
- The Queen’s Nursing Institute [20]

Other roles that may interest you

- Adult nurse [2]
- General practice nurse [21]
- Children’s nurse [3]
- Health visitor [22]

Partner logos

Source URL: https://www.healthcareers.nhs.uk/explore-roles/nursing/roles-nursing/district-nurse

Links
[12] https://www.healthcareers.nhs.uk/i-am/working-health/clinical-academic-careers
[14] https://www.jobs.nhs.uk/
[16] https://www.healthcareers.nhs.uk/about/working-health/nhs-constitution
[23] https://www.rcn.org.uk/