Careers and education professionals, this is your chance to get an insight into the breadth of NHS apprenticeships available.

National programme manager for apprenticeships in the NHS, Lucy Hunte, will give an insight into the apprenticeships on offer and how to access them. From pharmacy assistants, finance administrators and carpenters to emergency care assistants, registered mental health nurses and radiographers. And opportunities at level 2 through to degree and master's level with new career pathways emerging all the time. Join us for this session on 24 November at 1pm.
