

Health careers and job vacancy information

Each of the UK's four countries provides health careers information slightly differently. There are also different places to look for job vacancies.

Click on the links below to see more about careers and job vacancy information in each of the four countries.

- England

This website (Health Careers) provides detailed information about 15 health career areas in England. You can also find out everything you need to know about careers in medicine [1] and public health [2] across the whole of the UK.

Where relevant, we'll signpost you to further information in other parts of the UK, for example information about studying nursing in Wales [3].

More than 350 roles to choose from

Each of our role pages includes information about what's involved in the role, the skills required, necessary training, and where the role can lead. See our explore roles section for information about:

- Health careers in England [4]
- Medical careers in England and across the UK [1]
- Public health careers in England and across the UK [2]

Job vacancies

- Vacancies in organisations delivering NHS healthcare (including some vacancies with Public Health England) can be found on the NHS Jobs website [5]
- Opportunities in the Civil Service (including some vacancies with Public Health England) can be found on the Civil Service Jobs website [6]
- Vacancies in local government can be found on the Local Government Jobs website and the Jobs Go Public website [7]
